Information note: Fair Work Commission quarterly reports

Published 8 January 2025

This note accompanies reports published on the Fair Work Commission (Commission) website on a quarterly basis. It provides detailed information about the source of the data contained in the quarterly reports.

Pursuant to section 654 of the Fair Work Act 2009 (Cth) (the Act), the President of the Commission is required to provide information prescribed in the Fair Work Regulations 2009 (Cth) (the Regulations) to the Minister for Employment and Workplace Relations and to the Fair Work Ombudsman. The prescribed information is set out in Part 1 and Part 2 of Schedule 5.2 to the Regulations. Additional information is provided in the reports in order for completeness.

The quarterly reports are compiled primarily from administrative data¹ derived from the Commission's case management system called 'CaseHQ'. The reports provide dynamic data at a point in time. Given the nature of the work of the Commission, the data is:

- capable of change as a matter progresses (i.e. where a matter subsequently resolves or discontinues at a date later than the relevant quarter or a case is run over successive quarters) or where a settlement was not properly executed and/or complied with;

Fair Work
Commission

- subject to issues which arise in the collection of administrative data and;
- subject to changes in administrative practices that may affect time series analysis.

The dynamic nature of the data means that not all data in the quarterly reports will match the data in the Commission's annual reports for the relevant year. The Commission's annual report, which is tabled in the Australian Parliament each year, is the official statistical record of the Commission's activities for the financial year.

The table in this information note sets out: the name of the reporting item as described by the Regulations; the sources of data; how this data is used to report on an item and when the data is collected for reporting on an item.

Data definitions

CaseHQ is the case management system of the Commission. This system uses a series of events and event descriptions as data markers. The events used to compile this report are:

Matter type: Applications are named by the section of the Act that gives rise to the ability to make the application. This is referred to in the table as a matter type description.

Lodgment date: The date the application was received by the Commission.

Listings: The scheduling of proceedings at the Commission. Listings include details such as who will preside over (hear) the matter and how the proceedings will be conducted.

Listing date: The date a proceeding occurred.

Results: Results are broad categories of descriptions of the way matters are managed and resolved. A result description can be the section of the Act that gives rise to the power to make a decision or order, such as granting an application or dismissing an objection. Other results can be the outcome of other functions of the Commission such as resolution of a dispute after a conference or conciliation or the withdrawal of an application.

Result date: The day the event occurs, such as the date an application is discontinued or a decision is issued.

Commission

Other events: These events are used in some circumstances and are specifically designed and generated for reporting purposes, such as the 'commenced to deal' event which is used to measure the time from lodgment to the commencement of enquiries for anti-bullying matters.

Additional data is collected and stored in CaseHQ or used in combination with CaseHQ data. This data is described in the table below as:

Information attached to results: Where additional information attaches to events in CaseHQ. A digital form is completed by administrative staff with information supplied from Commission forms, parties and finding of fact through proceedings.

Measures of time: The calculation of days between two prescribed events. These figures, unless otherwise indicated, are aggregated and averaged.

Other data: Information compiled outside of CaseHQ
